

Kev's Guide to - Cockroaches

Cockroaches, not something anyone likes to talk about so sometimes we put up with these types of pests for far too long. We don't judge because we know better than anyone that cockroaches can get out of hand very quickly left unattended. Cockroaches can normally be taken care of with one treatment and is very reasonably price with little disruption to everyday life we know what chemicals to use and where to put them as well as keeping this treatment child and pet safe.

A common place for cockroaches to turn up is in the back of your refrigerator where the compressor is, this is because most people don't think about pulling the fridge out when mopping so food builds up. This creates the perfect environment. Now they have food, warmth and water due to most fridge/freezers having drip trays and the breeding begins.

With the chemicals we use, both wet and dry, we can treat these areas along with other common nesting areas such as cupboards hinges, cracks and crevices for a fast result.

Cost is about $300 depending on the size and severity of the infestation and comes with a 3-month warranty in most cases.
